A petition from the Retail Grocers' Association to citizens, which will be sent out request that provisions and meat for Sunday be purchased on Saturday. Many persons now walt until Sunday morning to buy meats and groceries and a large numher of groceries of necessity keep open. It is argued that grocery clerks work longer hours than those in any other line of trade. and it is a hardship to be compelled by citizens to work Sunday after keeping open late throughout the week and until 11 o'clock Saturday nights. A further argument in favor of Saturday buying is that Keach, "the potato king." Councilman "Jim" Moriarity and Emil Mantel and Louis Traugott spent most of the day at this place. Mantel and Traugott have been in the "barrel-house" business for years. A gang of questionable men that had been loaning about the saloons of the vicinity for some time turned up at the polls in the morning, but soon discovered there was "nothing doing." The Republicans had anticipated the difficulty and had made a perfect poll of the precinct. The Democratic poll, it seemed, had been carelessly made. Moriarity attempted bluffing, but it got him nothing, and the men at his back that had no right to vote did not try to force their way to the booths. Two years ago the Democratic majority in this precinct was 63, but late yesterday afternoon the Republicans felt that their advantage of an exact poll would reduce the Democratic vote greatly.

ELEVENTH WARD. The Eleventh ward, just west of the Tenth, furnished excitement in the mornng. Jacob Cullen approached the ninth precinct voting place, at 329 West Merrill street, and was challenged by Louis Traugott, who was using his ability on behalf of the Democrats in both the Tenth and Eleventh wards. Gustave Joseph, a traveling man, living at 694 South Illinois street said he knew Cullen and that he had right to vote. A quarrel began and Joseph said he had protection. Some one said he had a revolver, and several men ran toward him. Joseph fled, but was caught, and as he was one against many he was beaten One man, said to have been Michael Traugott, struck him in the eye.
